

THE SILVER FIGHT.

At present the silver fight is in a rather mixed condition. The bill agreed upon in the Republican caucus is already receiving opposition from Stewart and Jones because it places too much power in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Already the real intent of the law has been defeated by a pliable Secretary of the Treasury, and it is not safe to allow a bill to become a law that gives him the option of doing one of two things.

As Senator Stewart expresses it: "The authority given to the Secretary of the Treasury to exchange the bullion purchased for certificates would throw all the bullion in the Treasury on the market. The purchasers of bullion for foreign account would purchase from the Treasury for two reasons—one, because they can get it as cheap there as anywhere else, and second, because if they purchase from the Treasury there would be no accumulation in this country to sustain the market."

"The Secretary is required to purchase four and a half million ounces, and if he should sell four and a half millions the same month, his purchases and sales would balance and leave the market unaffected. Those purchasing for foreign account want cheap silver, and by buying of the Secretary they would prevent competition and have the market all to themselves."

While the Republicans are not wholly in harmony on this bill, Teller comes to the front with an absolute free coinage measure, which solves all difficulty.

The dispatches say that many Republicans will not support it, because they feel bound by the caucus on the other bill.

It is bad policy to attempt to make party capital out of the wants of the people. It is a fight of men, irrespective of party, against the garnered wealth of Wall Street. There can be no politics in such a measure, and if an attempt is made to place one party or the other on record for future political advantage, it will boomerang somebody fearfully.

All who desire to see the circulating medium of the country made more plentiful, should unite irrespective of party on the Teller bill, which is the only bill yet introduced that has the true free coinage ring in it.

It looks as if the gold men, seeing what was coming, had halted the silver line until they could buy up the advancing white metal and make their big scoop in the market while there was yet a chance. Silver will be a highly speculative metal for a while, and it looks as if

"Now is the time to buy."

THE VON SCHMIDT SCHEME.

Von Schmidt's scheme of utilizing the waters of Lake Tahoe for a San Francisco water supply, is thus discussed by the Salt Lake Tribune:

The scheme of Von Schmidt for piping water from Lake Tahoe to San Francisco, reference to which was made in yesterday's Coast news in the Tribune, is seventeen years old. That would, we presume, have been carried out years ago had the Central Pacific R. R. Company owed no Government debt on their railroad property, for the plan involved does not only propose to carry water to San Francisco, but also to make a railroad tunnel through the Sierras, which will materially lower the grade and altitude of the present road and remove the necessity of fighting the snow in winter over a great portion of the line. It is very possible that if Congress passes the pending bills extending the time for payment of the debts of the Union and Central Pacific Railroad Companies, and if a guarantee of interest can be obtained from San Francisco, Von Schmidt and the railroad people will put the tunnel through. We think the railroad company also desire to change their grade and their route over the Sierras. They do not want too much to lengthen the line, and they want further to go through a belt of the finest timber on the mountains, hence there may be some significance in the revival of this old scheme by Von Schmidt.
